Each department contributed towards making the 1962-63 school year successful. Business students and teachers participated in a Thrift Forum at Ball State. Social science students were encouraged to take part in the Model U.N. Assembly. An opportunity to hear the annual Christmas Sing at Purdue University was offered by the choral department. English teachers were willing to assist Storer scholarship applicants with autobiographies. Eight years of foreign language were made available by the addition of a second year French class. Students of Royerton High School appreciated the time and effort spent by its faculty and administration to further the educational opportunities.

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES

Thanks for the memories of rainy afternoons,
Swingy Royerton tunes,
Ballgame trips, the guidanceship
With Glancy's office strewn:
How lovely it was.

Thanks for the memories of dining hall and talks,
Phys. ed. and the walks,
The opera chairs, the class parties,
The blackboard with its chalk:
How lovely it was.

Many's the time we feasted,
And many's the time we fasted.
Oh well, it was swell while it lasted:
We did have fun, and no harm done and . . .

Thanks for the memories of homework we deplore,
The school that we adore,
It might have been a headache, but it never was a bore,
So thank you so much.

Vacation Breaks.

Season Opened With Decisive Victory Over Geneva

Redbirds trounced Geneva 39-0 in the season's opener. Defeats followed but regardless, Redbird rooters, led by determined cheerleaders, shook the bleachers with yells of encouragement.

Redbird gridironers will have to weather the loss of ten seniors next year. Graduating lettermen are Tom Browning, Jerry Scott, Alva Warren, Jerry Thomas, backs; Doug Brown, center; Bill Caudill, guard; and Mike Brothers, Roger Goodyear, Phil Poland, tackles.

Doug Brown and Bill Caudill both received honorable mention in the Mississinewa Valley Conference.

Redbirds elected Doug Brown, center, most valuable player of the year. Several boys shared the honor of co-captain throughout the season.

Although they lacked the experience and size that had graced the previous Redbirds teams, the young net rippers from Roerton managed to arrive on the healthy side of the won and lost column with a 12-9 record.

A dismal beginning gave way to a hot streak as Roerton captured six in a row, beating some of the better teams in the county, including Daleville, Selma, and Cowan, county champs of 1963.

Other bright spots of the season were wins over tough Middletown and Parker and a vengeful victory over Gaston, who spoiled Redbird hopes for their third consecutive county championship.

Brown, Green, and Shors, three seasoned Redbirds, will be lost via graduation.

Rugged Schedule Prevented Freshman Victories

Royerton's tall and talented reserve team finished the season with 6 wins and 13 losses. During the practice sessions the reserve squad gave the varsity eagles many rugged moments. Many long hours and hard work were behind the team. The team revolved around Carl Holten, Alan LaRue, Bruce Hatfield, Scot Fisher, and Mark Huddleston.

Yell leaders, Terri Chalfant and Vicki Pierson gave their time and energy to arouse the fans and the spirit of the team.

The seats grew hard, the cokes lost their taste, and the bright colors of the cheering sections became dull. The happy yelling and singing of the Burris fans, similar to that of our own only minutes before, was a droning nuisance leaving an empty feeling in each of our stomachs. Though there was no real pain, the tears flowed freely and even the boys had trouble keeping their composure.

It was over. It only lasted about an hour, but it seemed like eternity. Gone were our hopes for a sectional victory, gone for another year—and forever for the seniors—was that great gathering of friends and fans, closely packed together, laughing and screaming and yelling nonsense at the top of their lungs, happy to be participants in what Indiana warmly knows as a basketball game.

Displaying vim and vigor the junior high basketball team ended the season with a 12-won 4-loss record. Through teamwork, determination and good sportsmanship, the junior high squad found the path to victory in the junior high tournament at Taylor University. The junior high won other awards at the tournament at Upland. Eighth grader Randy Taylor was the recipient of the good sportsmanship award, while the junior high yell leaders were judged first in the yell leading contest. Much is owed to the team and yell leaders for the fine teamwork, sportsmanship, effort, and enthusiasm they displayed throughout the season.

Juniors initiated were Martha Boyd, Kay Browning, Larry Burns, Celia Carter, John Carter, Jody Eddy, Frank Novel, Judy Stanley, Bill Storey, Chuck Taylor, and Connie Young.

The Honor Society selects the recipients of the good citizenship award. This award goes to the most outstanding freshman and sophomore boy or girl. The award is given on the basis of the student's citizenship and service toward the school and community.

Sweatshirt Sales Boosted School Spirit and Funds

The purpose of Student Council was to keep student government running smoothly. Other objectives were to promote school spirit and to further better relations between other schools. This was no small task. Each council member benefited from serving the administration, faculty, and students. Members of the Student Council are elected through the home rooms. Throughout the school year, the council sponsored various projects and social activities. Selling Redbird sweatshirts, which were worn throughout the school year, was one of the council's projects. Money received from the sale of sweatshirts helped to finance improvements in our school.

Officers of the Student Council are Jay Shors, president; Susie Oren, vice-president; Scot Fisher, treasurer; Becky Unzicker, secretary; and Doug Brown, parliamentarian.

The FFA and vocational agriculture classes work closely together to train boys outstanding in the judging field. Dave Huddleston, Bruce Hatfield, Richard Shirey, and Steven Boggs were chosen to represent Royerton in the judging contest. Nine boys were eligible for the judging team this year.

Since there are only two agriculture classes and some boys wish to take agriculture four years, every year in agriculture is different. Keeping livestock healthy, planting the correct amount of seed per acre, acquiring the right type of lease, figuring balanced rations for livestock, approximating the cost of running a farm and practicing good judgment and common sense make up the bulk of the knowledge received during a year of vocational agriculture.

Daily Band Rehearsals

The high school band was busy this year preparing for many performances. Highlights of the basketball halftime shows included "Salute the Duke" featuring the Pom Pom Corps and a twirling routine to the show tune, "Great Day." By practicing during physical education class, the sophomore girls learned a dance to "Bah Dah Dah" and made their first appearance as a group in February.

Elementary, junior high, and high school bands began the new year with a combined concert open to the public. The highlight of the concert was the rendition of selections from "The Music Man" by the high school band.

Summer rehearsals were scheduled to prepare for the State Fair in the fall. In addition, the high school band performed at Ball State for their annual Band Day along with forty-four other bands from the state.

Shows and Religious Programs

The Choral Department represents one of the busiest departments in the school. The Robed Choir, Choralites, and Esquires are the groups which have been programmed for the many shows throughout the year. The Thanksgiving and Christmas convocations were highlights of the chorus classes. Variety shows were used during the entire year as well as during the Christmas festivities. Although the extra performances at Christmas time meant hard work, it was rewarding. In order to peak in perfection at contest, Mrs. Riggan and the choir spent many hours working together on the three contest numbers, especially the required, "Be Thou Not Still." Closing their most successful and exciting year, the Choral Department helped to present April Showers.

Queen Beth

Homecoming festivities have a special meaning for senior, Beth Thompson. Beth reigned as the 1962-1963 homecoming queen. A leader in her class, Beth has served as varsity yell leader, class officer, Pom Pom Corps, and Student Council member. Beth has displayed her many talents in acrobatics at the junior carnival and basketball games. As a member of the speech class, she performed as the lady psychologist who wanted to prove there is "Nothing Wrong With the Girls."

Future plans for Beth include majoring in physical education at Ball State Teachers College.

Spirits were high and enthusiasm at its peak at this year's tenth annual homecoming.

The Roerton Alumni Association planned the event of the evening which began with a blazing bonfire. The gridiron remained hot during the game as the Highland squad and the Redbirds fought for victory.

Half-time entertainment included a program given by the high school marching band and a parade of the queen candidates and court. Following the game a "Hula Hop" took place in the gym.

Ten o'clock marked the highlight of the evening. Miss Beth Thompson was crowned as Roerton's new homecoming queen.

Miss Dickerson stands next to her car.

Ma, those "B" boys are makin' eyes at me!

Carnival Preparations Included Booths, Selling

Junior parents couldn't keep out of the act in the minstrel show.

The evening of October 24 was anxiously anticipated by all juniors. Hard work and planning by parents and students set this colorful activity in motion. The well-earned profits will be used to finance the juniors' approaching senior trip.

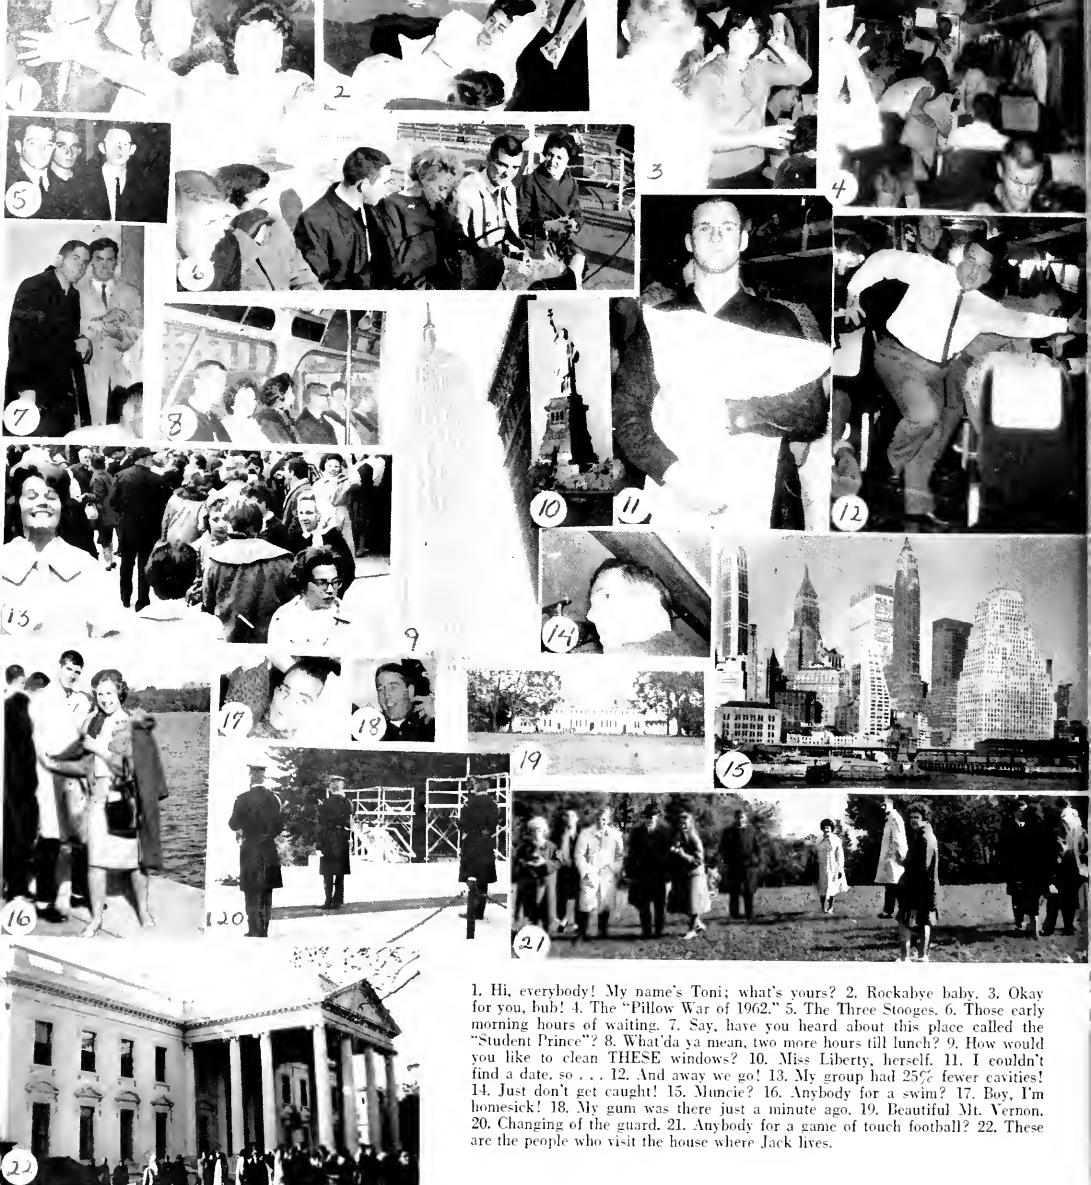

The atmosphere of the junior carnival was most realistic. Well organized booths filled the gymnasium, while interesting attractions, such as the music show, boys' burlesque, Vaudeville U.S.A., and the minstrel show entertained hundreds of carnival goers. Each act contributed fun and excitement to the evening. Overall the junior production was quite successful.

I couldn't find a date, so . . . 12. And away we go! 13. My group had 25% fewer cavities! 14. Just don't get caught! 15. Muncie? 16. Anybody for a swim? 17. Boy, I'm homesick! 18. My gum was there just a minute ago. 19. Beautiful Mt. Vernon. 20. Changing of the guard. 21. Anybody for a game of touch football? 22. These are the people who visit the house where Jack lives.

Background for Sweetheart Ball

The fifth annual "Sweetheart Ball," February 10, was climaxed by the crowning of the "Sweetheart Queen" and "Princess."

Miss Madlyn Newby was crowned by Miss Janette Freeman, 1962 queen. As Her Majesty received her crown, she was presented with a dozen American Beauty roses.

Also nominated for queen was Miss Maureen Thompson, senior. Candidates for princess were Karen Stevens, junior; Judy Smith and Melinda Riggan, sophomores; Nancy Love and Carolyn Adams, freshmen. "Princess" for the evening's festivities was Miss Nancy Hoover, junior.

Decorations for the informal dance consisted of cupids and hearts sprinkled from the ceiling on which was centered a large red heart. Forming the backdrop for the Dan Cooper Band was a large cupid surrounded with hearts and arrows. Individual guest tables were centered with miniature trees hung with tiny paper hearts.

Karen Stevens congratulates Nancy Hoover, who is casting an admiring glance at her roses.

Trips, Parties, Play Enabled Seniors to Form

Lasting Friendships

Senior girls play thumper.

Thanks to our hosts for a swell party—Gary Taylor, Dave Werbil, Dan Hillman, and Alva Warren.

Seniors have had many memorable moments throughout the year. The class trip to Washington, D. C. and New York provided the group with time to really get to know one another. Other activities in which the class experienced group fellowship were parties given by various members of the class. Before the senior trip, Judy Prokop's party helped prepare the group for their six day experience. Connie Constant's get together after the Senior Ball, was enjoyed by many seniors and their guests. Highlighting the winter activities for the seniors was the party at the Rustic Cabin, given by David Werbil, Alva Warren, Gary Taylor, and Danny Hillman.

The senior play, "If A Man Answers," was the final project for the class. All seniors participated in its production.

The junior-senior prom and the annual all night party for the seniors concluded the group activities for the 1962-63 graduating class.

Dave Saunders, Roy Crawford, Diane Randall, Jim Green, Geo. Phelps, Beth Thompson, Larry Spector, Karla Jordan, Tom Browning, Mark Graves, Bob Collings, Dan Doster, and Mrs. Putman perform in "What's Wrong With the Girls," given by the speech class.
